

Contents | Author index | Subject index | Search | Home

Gillian Kerins Ronan Madden Crystal Fulton

CHANGE FONT

1996

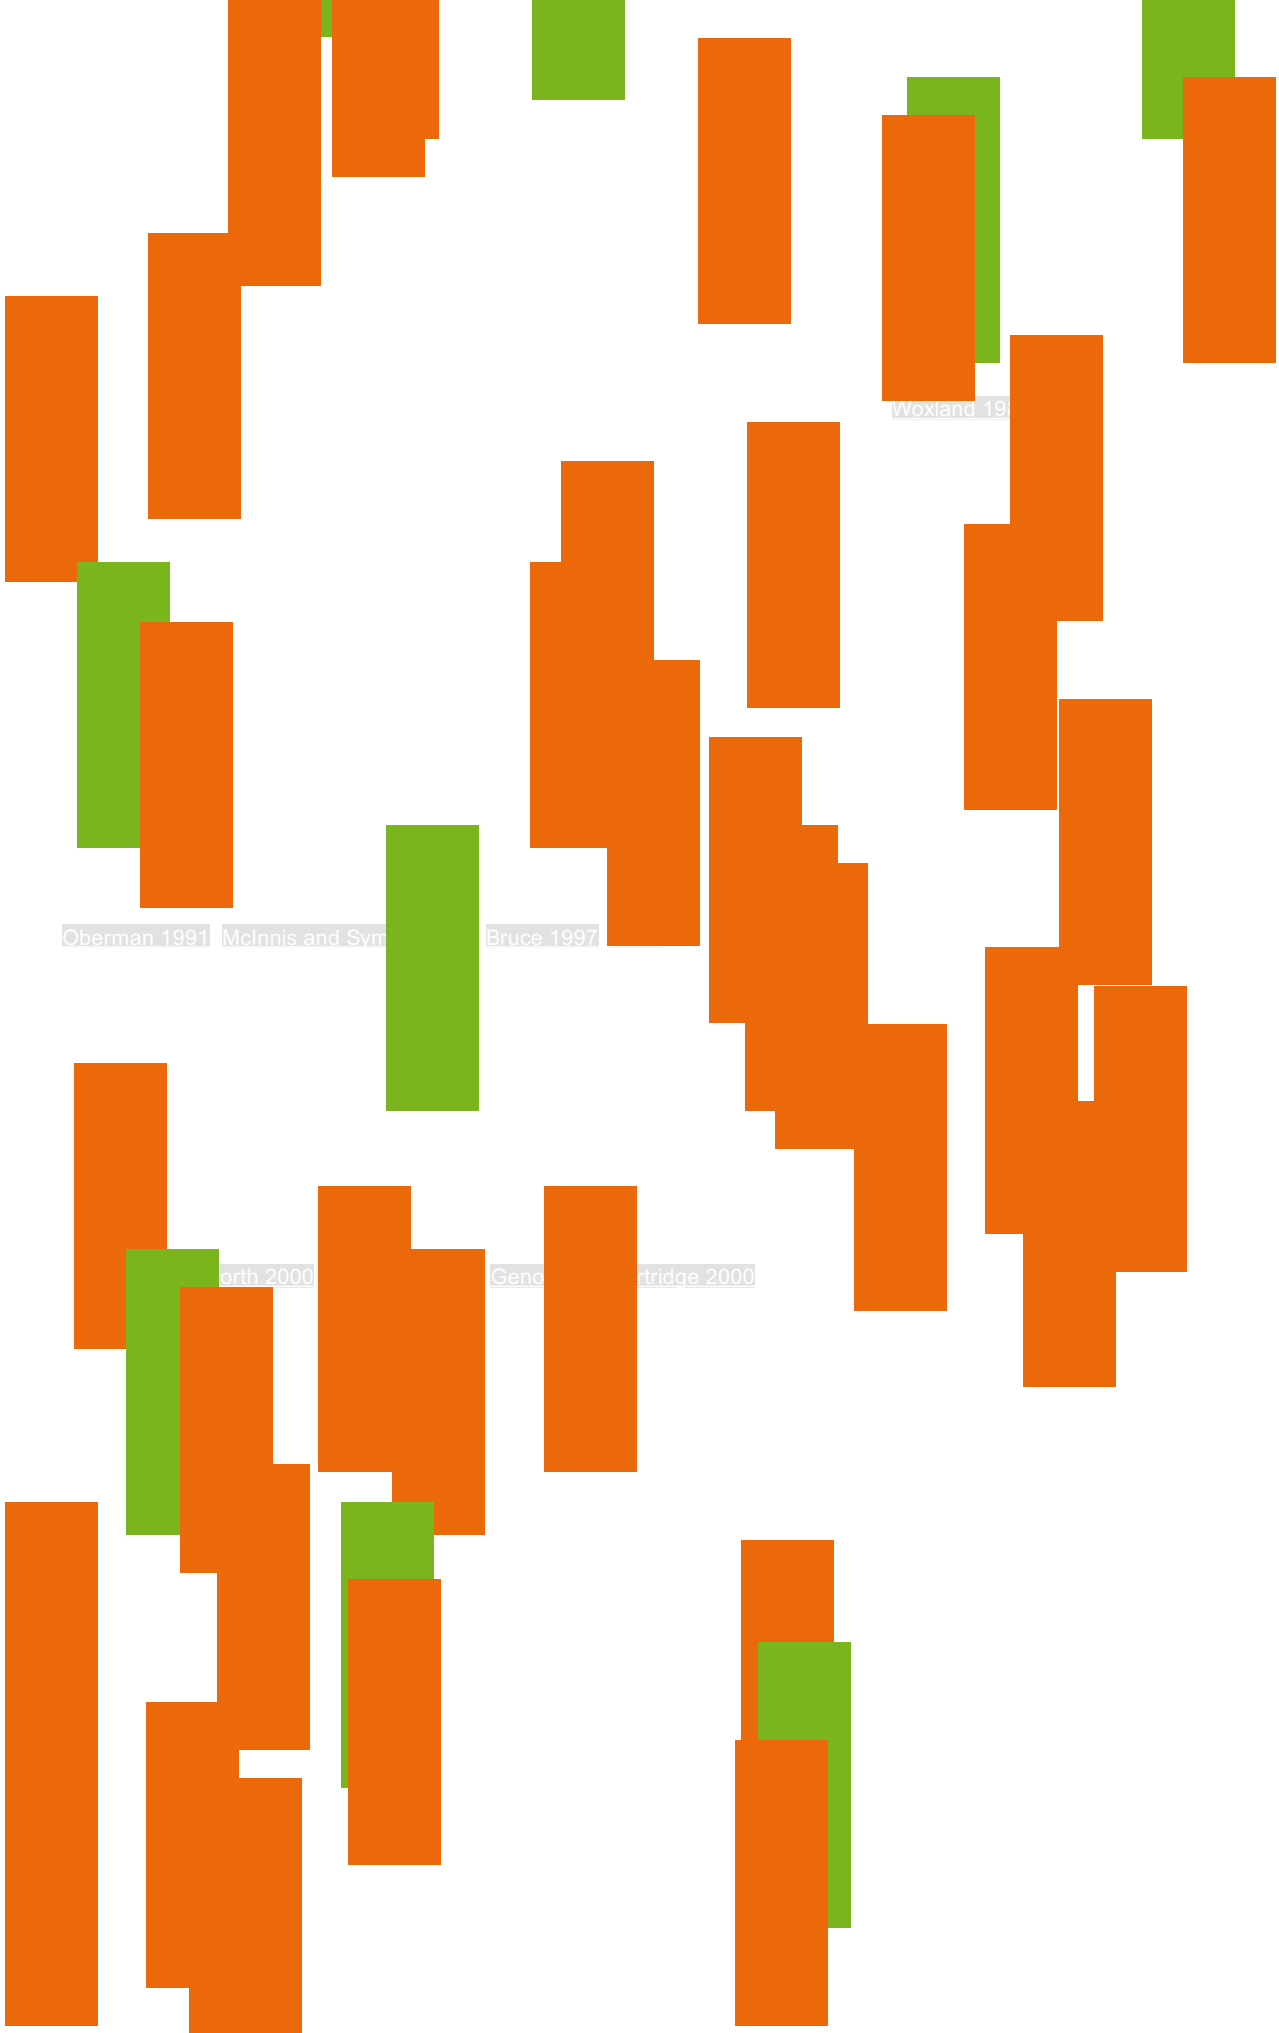

Dev ... d Lingam 1997

?

Ward 2001 Pinelli 1991 Breton 1981 Harri ... ung 1979

Carroll et al. 20

Anderson et al. 2001

Anderson et al. 2001

Folster

na, S.S. (1997). The competence required of future information professionals. Malaysian Journal of Library & Information Science, 2(2).

Anderson, C.J., Glassman, M., McAfee, K., & Pinelli, T. (1997). An investigation of factors affecting how engineers and technologists seek information. Journal of Management and Technology, 18(2), 131-155.

Breton, E.J++ (1981). Why engineers do not use libraries: indexing and abstracting fail to fit needs of the profession. Bulletin of the American Society for Information Science, 7(6), 20-3.

Bruce, C. (1997). The many faces of information literacy education. Journal of the Australian Librarians Association, 46(1), 1-5.

Bruce, C. (2000). Information Literacy as a catalyst for educational change: a bibliography. Journal of the Australian Librarians Association, 49(1), 1-5.

Callister, P.D. (1997). Evaluating the impact of law librarians on the pedagogy of legal research education. Journal of Librarianship, 95(1), 1-5.

Carroll, R++ (1997). The impact of information literacy and learning research skills on the performance of students in the UWA Bachelor of Information Science Degree.

Chen, F. (1997). The methodology for the identification of information needs of engineers. Journal of the American Society for Information Science, 23(1), 1-5.

Haugh, J. (1997). Modelling the information seeking patterns of engineers and technologists in an industrial environment. Journal of Documentation, 52(4), 384-403.

Gilbert, G. (1997). Improving the information seeking skills of engineering students. Journal of Engineering Education, 76(1), 1-5.

Griffiths, A. (1997). Information-seeking behavior of undergraduate geography students. Journal of Geography Strategies, 30(1), 1-5.

Fidel, R++ (1997). The many faces of accessibility: engineers' perceptions of information sources. Information and Technology, 40(3), 563-581.

Flanagan, J. (1997). The critical incident technique. Psychological Bulletin, 5(1), 1-5.

Folster, M.E. (1997). Information seeking patterns: social sciences. Library Users & Reference Services, 50(1), 83-93.

Ward, M. (1997). Personal research information management: information literacy and the research process. Journal of the American Society for Information Science, 48(1), 1-5.

Ward, M. (1997). Information literacy around the world: a survey of programs and research. (pp. 223-236). Journal of the American Society for Information Science.

Ward, M. (1997). Criteria used by research and development engineers in the selection of an information source. Journal of Applied Psychology, 82(1), 272-279.

Ward, M. (2001). Understanding information literacy: the perceptions of first year undergraduate students at the University of Ballarat. Journal of the Australian Librarians Association, 50(1), 1-5.

Ward, M. (2001). Approaches to information literacy training in higher education: challenges for the future. New Academic, 6(1), 21-34.

Ward, M. (1996). Pettigrew, K.E., & Sylvain, C. (1996). Modeling the information seeking of professionals: a general model derived from research on engineers, health care professionals and lawyers. Library Quarterly, 66(2), 1-5.

McInnis, R++ (1991). Running backwards to a finish line: a new concept in graphic instruction. Library Trends, 40(1), 23-237.

Oberman, C. (1997). The cereals syndrome, or critical thinking in the electronic environment. Library Trends, 39(3), 189-202.

Pinelli, T. E. (1997). Information-seeking habits and practices of engineers. In C.A. Pinelli, (Ed.), Communicating behaviour of scientists and engineers. (pp. 5-25). New York: Haworth Press, Inc.

Ward, M. (2001). A survey of engineers in their information seeking. Journal of Librarianship and Information Science, 33(4), 168-171.

Woxland, T.A. (1997). Why can't Johnny Research? or, a conversation with Christopher C. Woxland. Law Library Journal, 81(1), 1-5.

Young, J++ (1979). The changing technical life of engineers. Mechanical Engineering, 10(1), 20-24.

Articles of this paper, according to Google Scholar

9159

Web Counter

Contents | Author index | Subject index | Search | Home