

Contents | Author index | Subject index | Search | Home

Jennifer

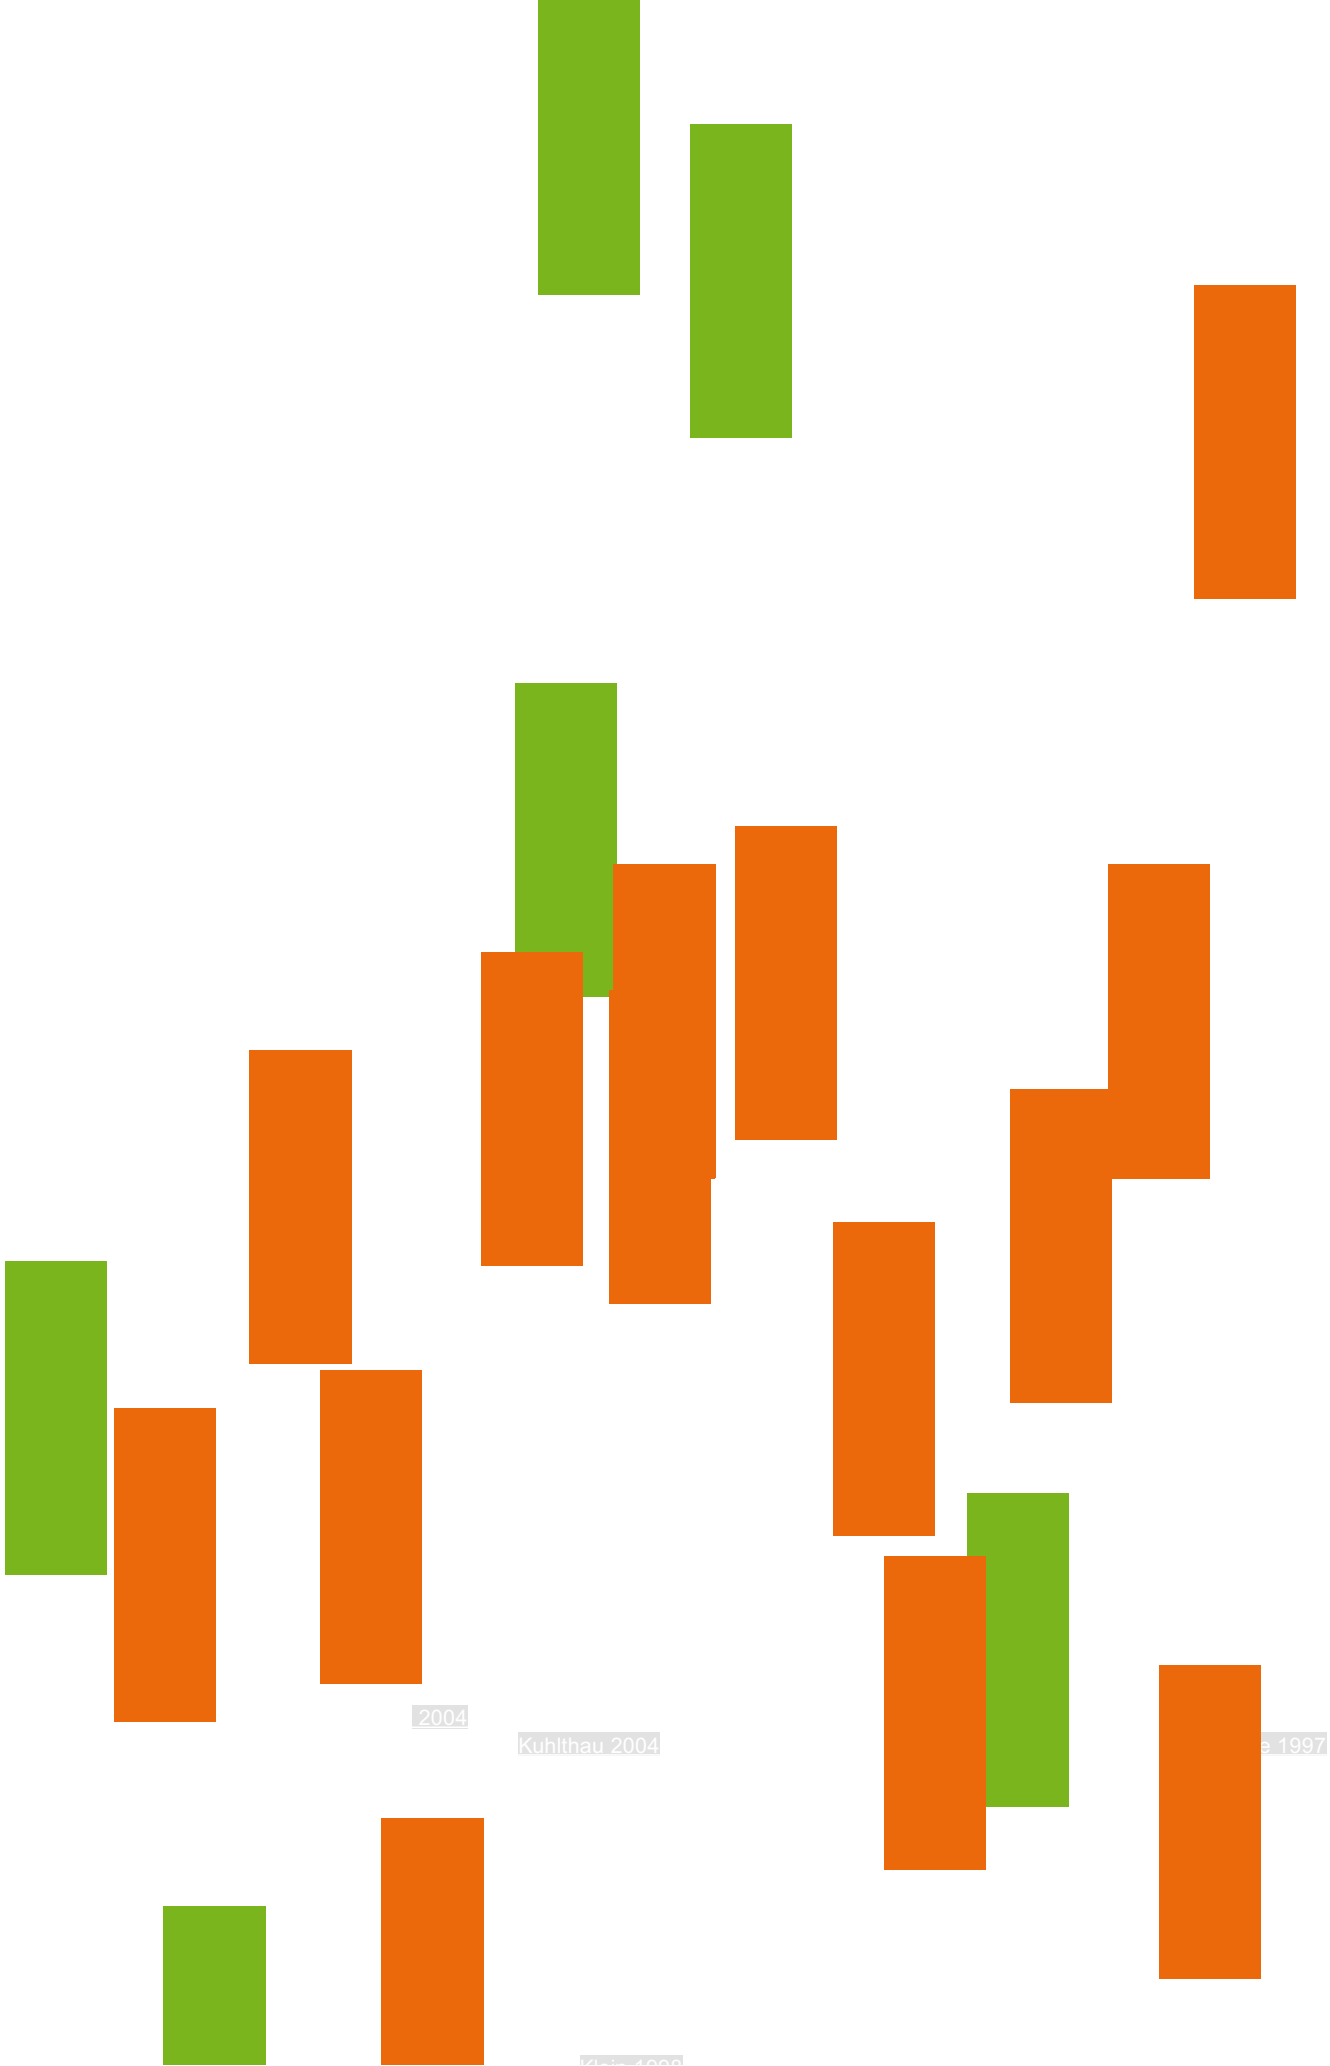

CHAN

Ku Wilson, et al. 2002
ster 2004

Wilson 1999

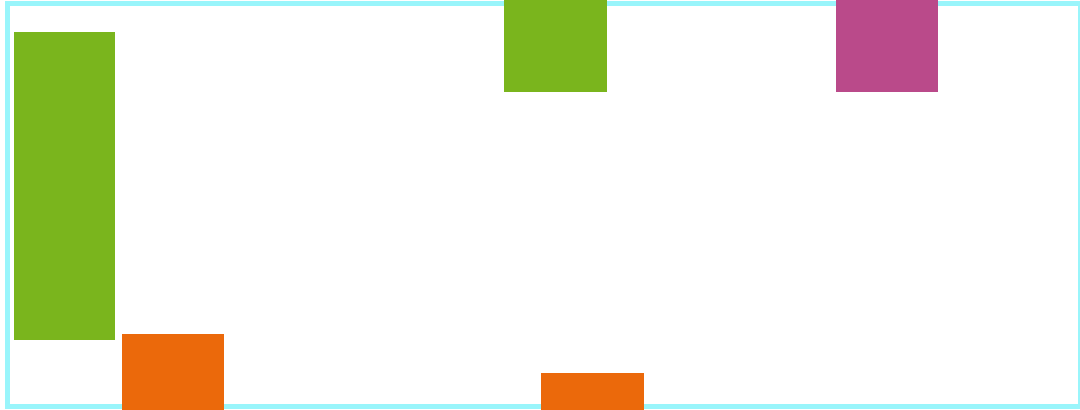

Klein 1998

2005

Kerstholt and Ayton 2001

and Klein 1997

Mesonas 2001

Lipshitz, et al. 2001

Lipshitz 2001

Vakkari 2001

Agosto, D. E. (2001). Bounded rationality and decision making in young people's web-based decision making. Journal of the American Society for Information Science and Technology, 52(1), 16-27.

Bystrom, K. & Hansen, P. (2005). Conceptualizing a framework for tasks in information studies. Journal of the American Society for Information Science and Technology, 50(1), 1-10.

Bystrom, K. & Jarvelin, K. (1995). Task complexity and information seeking and use. Information Processing and Management, 31(2), 97-113.

Case, D. O. (2002). Looking for information: a guide to research on information seeking, needs, and behavior. New York, NY: Academic Press.

Cole, C. (1998). Information as process: the difference between corroborating evidence and 'information' in humanistic research domains. Information Processing & Management, 33(1), 55-67.

Con0line, M. (2004). Public policy: a guide to research. Melbourne: Macmillan.

Ezzy, D. (2002). Qualitative analysis: a guide to innovation. Sydney: Allen & Unwin.

Fidel, R++ & Green, M. (2004). Many faces of accessibility: users' perception of information resources. Information Processing & Management, 40(3), 53-581.

Fidel, R++ & Pejtersen, M. (2004). From information behaviour research to design: a design framework for information systems. Cognitive Analysis framework.

Foster, A. (2004). A+ model of information seeking behaviour. Journal of the American Society for Information Science and Technology, 55(2), 228-230.

Gualtieri, P. (1999). The emerging information policy development process and democratic quality. Public Administration Service. Public Management Committee.

Hardman, L. (2004). Thinking: psychological perspectives on reasoning, judgment and decision making. Chicago: University of Chicago Press.

Harrison, E. F. (2004). Decision-making process. Boston, MA: Houghton Mifflin.

Jungermann, H. (2004). Stamps on rationality. In K. R++ & J. Hammond (Ed.), Judgment and decision making: an interdisciplinary approach. pp. 575-591. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.

Kantor, P. (2004). A model for the stopping behaviour of online systems. Journal of the American Society for Information Science and Technology, 38(3), 211-214.

Kerstholt, P. (2001). Should NDM change? Understanding of decision making. Journal of Behavioral Decision Making.

Kirk, J++ (2004). Information in organizations: directions for information management.

Klein, G. (1998). Source: how people decide. Cambridge, MA: MIT Press.

Kraft, D. (1979). Stopping their effect on search length. Information Processing and Management, 15(1), 5-54.

Kraft, D. & G. (1981). A+ model for stopping behaviour after stopping information retrieval systems. Information Processing and Management, 17(1), 34-40.

Kuhlthau, C. (2004). Seeking meaning: a journey of the heart and mind. Westport, CT: Libraries Unlimited.

Limberg, L. (2004). Experiencing information: a study of the interaction between two phenomena.

Limberg, T. & M. M. (1995). Naturalistic decision making: a study of the interaction of task and environment. New York, NY: Lawrence Erlbaum Associates.

Lincoln, Y. S. & G. G. (1985). Naturalistic decision making. New York, NY: Sage.

Lipshitz, R. & Klein, G. (1995). Naturalistic decision making: a study of the interaction of task and environment. New York, NY: Lawrence Erlbaum Associates.

March, J. G. (1999). Decision making in organizations: how decisions happen. New York, NY: Free Press.

Meso, P. (1999). Naturalistic decision making: a review of naturalistic decision making research with some implications for management. Management Science, 6(1), 63-73.

Montgomery, D. (1999). Naturalistic decision making: a review of naturalistic decision making research with some implications for management. Management Science, 6(1), 63-73.

Erba, B. (2005). Naturalistic decision making. Mahwah, NJ: Lawrence Erlbaum Associates.

Morehead, E. (2002). Models of naturalistic decision making in information seeking tasks. Information Processing & Management, 38(1), 1-15.

Morse, J. G. (2002). Readme first for a user's guide to naturalistic decision making methods. Thousand Oaks: Sage.

Newell, B. (1999). Re-visions of rationality? Trends in Cognitive Sciences, 9(1), 11-15.

Parker, N. (1999). Information processes: what's 'enough' for high accuracy? Trends in Cognitive Sciences, 9(1), 11-15.

Patton, M. (1990). Naturalistic decision making research and evaluation methods. (3rd ed.). Thousand Oaks, CA: Sage.

Simon, H. (1999). Models of bounded rationality: volume 3: empirical studies of economic reason. Cambridge, MA: MIT Press.

Solomon, J. (1999). Behaviour in sense making: a three year case study. In B. Dervin (Ed.), Proceedings of the International Conference on Research in Information Needs, Seeking and Use in Different Contexts (1996, Tampere Finland). (pp. 290-90). London: Taylor & Francis.

Sonnenwold, W. (1999). Information seeking perspectives of human information behaviour: a study of information seeking in different situations, social networks and information resources. In Wilson & D.K. Allen (Eds.), Exploring the contexts of information behaviour (pp. 176-190). London: Taylor & Francis.

Vakkari, P. (2001). A+ information seeking theory of the information seeking process: a generalisation of a longitudinal study of information seeking. Journal of Information Science, 27(1), 41-60.

Vakkari, P. (2002). Information seeking in the workplace. Journal of Information Science, 28(4), 413-485.

Wilson, T. (1999). Information behaviour research: a review. Journal of Information Science, 25(3), 249-270.

Wilson, T. (2002). Information seeking and mediated searching: a study of its correlation with information seeking and its correlation with information seeking. Journal of Information Science, 28(9), 704-715.

Yin, R. K. (2002). Case study research: design and methods. (3rd ed.). Newbury Park, CA: Sage.

Zach, L. (1999). What is 'enough' enough? A study of the information seeking and stopping behaviour of senior arts administrators. Journal of Information Science, 25(3), 249-270.

Zsombok, G. (1997). Naturalistic decision making. Mahwah, NJ: Lawrence Erlbaum Associates.

Articles citing this paper, according to Google Scholar

 Bookmark This Page

 Web Counter

Contents | Author index | Subject index | Search | Home