With respect to the simulated work task situations, the simulated work task situations are of recall and precision. A real information need is simulated by being of personal relevance to the user. TREC is the Text REtrieval Conference. For an overview of TREC the reader is referred to the TREC homepage at: <http://trec.nist.gov>. More overview papers can be found.

'Search job' is a simulated work task situation. The simulated work task situations are of recall and precision. A real information need is simulated by being of personal relevance to the user.

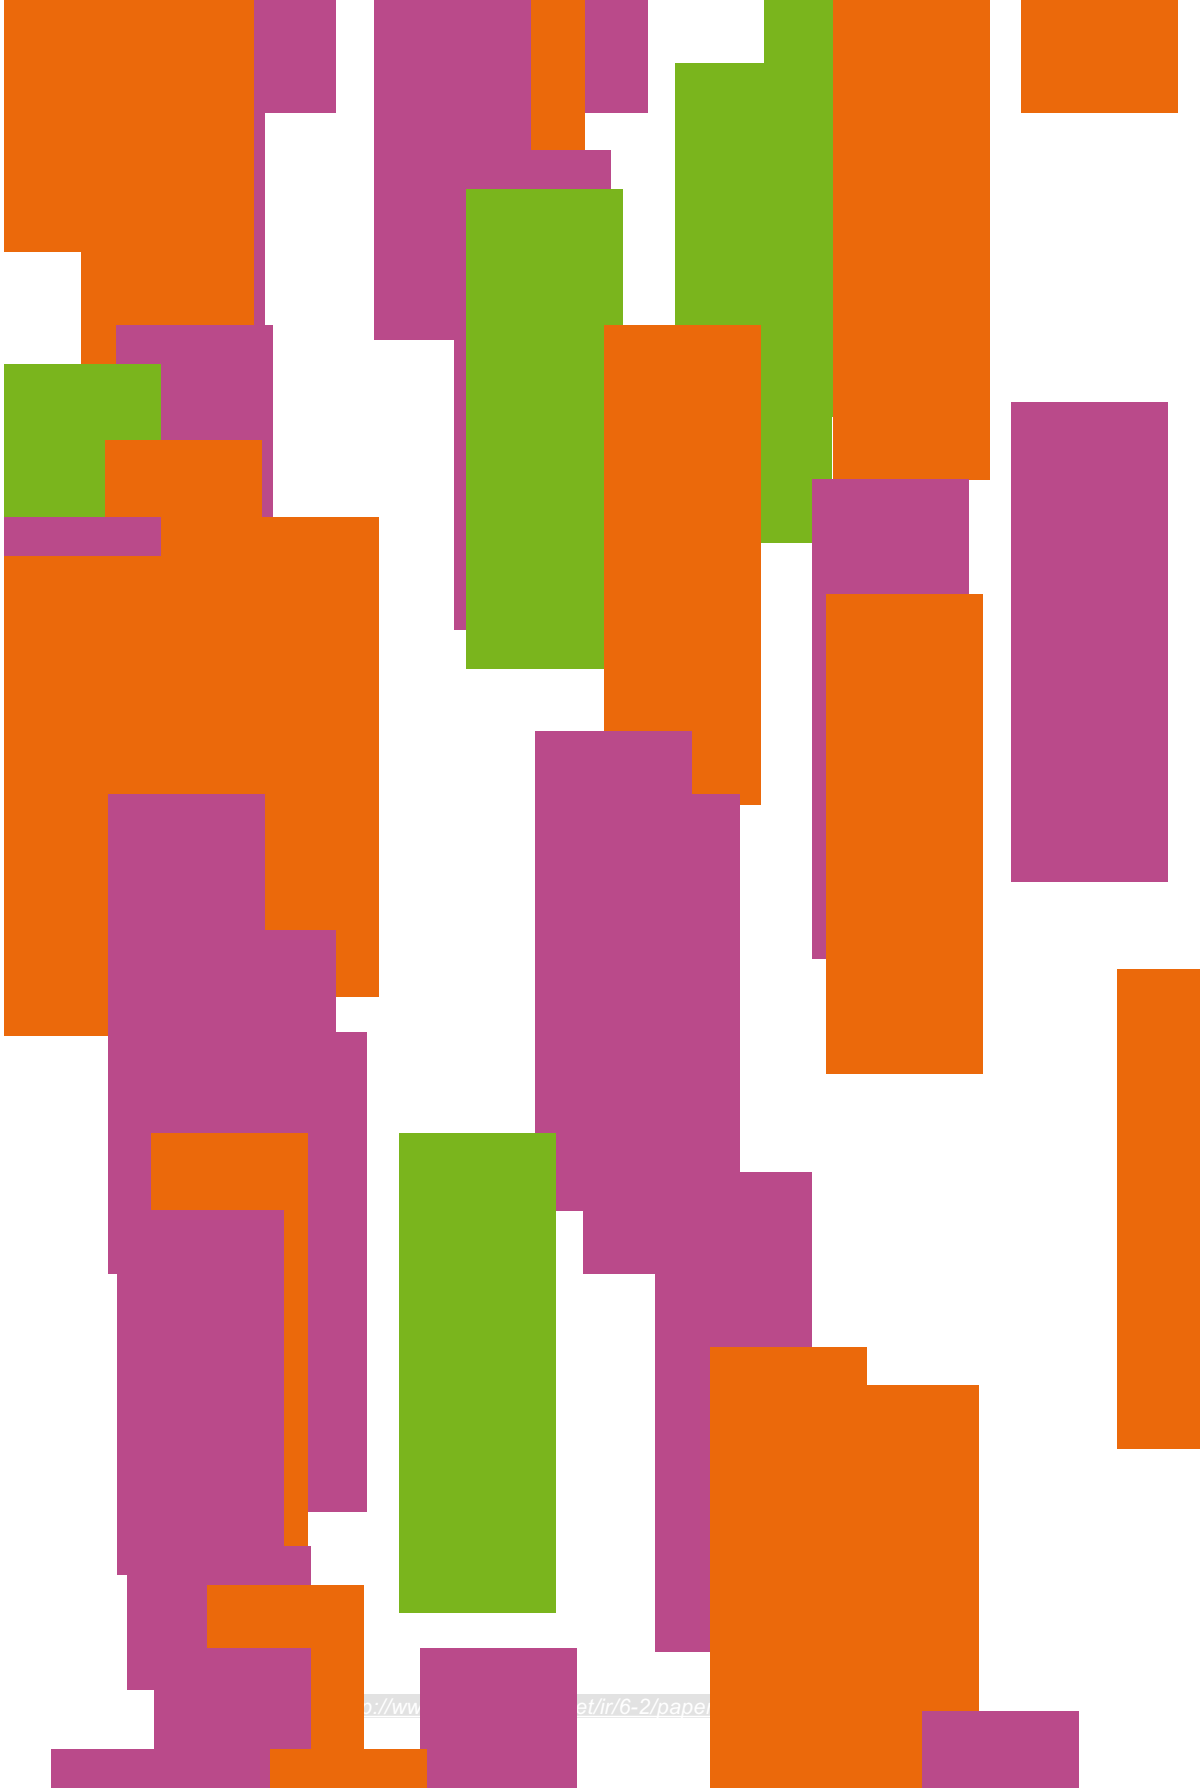

For definitions of different types of relevance see, e.g., Saracevic (1996). 2000

A panel is a group of experts or members of the research team, but as opposed to a panel that has simulated situations/simulated work task situations in advance.
